SCHOOL REPORT.

DISTRICT NO. 1.

John W. Hoyt, Prudential Committee. Miss Laura F. Parker taught the Summer school. The school was quiet and orderly to a remarkable degree, and the progress made was as good as could be expected, considering the very irregular attendance.

Winter school taught by Mr. Albert B. Stevens. Mr. Stevens tried to keep a good school, but as in the last term the attendance was very irregular and when scholars don't care whether they go to school or not, and won't study when they do go, how can we expect a successful school?

DISTRICT NO 2.

Wm. H. Barney, Prudential Committee. Only one term. Miss Martha J. Eastman, teacher. A teacher of considerable experience, and a good school. We quote from Miss Eastman's remarks: "The scholars in this district are deserving of praise for their good behavior at all times. They have done their part to make the term a pleasant one to the teacher, and in the future she will look back with pleasure to the ten weeks spent in Orange."

DISTRICT NO 3.

Alonzo W. Stevens, Prudential Committee. First term under the charge of Miss Lucy A. Hoyt. Miss. Hoyt's first term, and would rank above a good many schools taught by older teachers. Scholars learned very fast and were quiet and orderly.

Second term by Mr. Simeon R. Williams. A good teacher and a good school. At the first term there were two visits by parents, Mrs. Dexter Whittier and Mrs. John Ford.

DISTRICT NO 4.

Daniel Sanborn, Prudential Committee. First term of three weeks was taught by Mrs. Sarah M. Lurvey. We did not expect any progress, and were not disappointed.

Second term in the care of Miss Laura B. Sanborn, a teacher of much experience, she having taught five terms previous to this in this district. Commendable progress in all branches.

DISTRICT. NO 5.

Everett A. Wheeler, Prudential Committee. Miss Fanny F. Sanborn, teacher first term. At our visit at the opening of the school the teacher appeared to be doing nicely, and although we were not notified of the close of the school, and did not make a second visit, we think, judging from our observations at the opening of the next term, that the scholars made a very good record.

Mr. Wilson A. Farnum, had charge of the second term and gave good satisfaction.

DISTRICT NO. 6.

Fred Flanders, Prudential Committee. A single term taught by Miss Lizzie A. Powers. A good teacher and a good school.

DISTRICT NO. 7.

Dearborn Gray, Prudential Committee. First term taught by Miss Rosie B. Waldron. Miss W. tried hard to have a good school, but there was too many classes, she could not give her time to any one of them for more than five or ten minutes.

Second term by H. C. Kendall. As we had charge of this school we appointed a substitute to examine the school, who reports: "It was evident that Mr. Kendall tried hard to have a successful school, but the attendance was very irregular on the part of some of the scholars, and we judged that some of them did not attend with the intention of learning. Very rapid progress was made by those of the scholars who attended for the purpose of learning."

Four parents visited the schools in this district. Mrs. Adoniram Ford, the first term, and David Morse, Dearborn Gray and I. N. Hobart the second term.

ROLL OF HONOR.

Scholars that have not been absent one half day.

GENERAL REMARKS.

It seems as though men born in the midst of wealth and powerful friends should be the very ones to occupy most honorably the highest positions in society; they have others to help them, and possess the key to the facilities for a thorough education, and a wide knowledge of the world. Yet history shows that it is not the men who are reared in homes of wealth and power, but rather those who make themselves eminent by their own unaided exertions, that become the most shining ornaments of society. More than nine tenths of all our great leaders, received the rudiments of their education in country schools. We do not wish to be understood as saying that every boy can be a president or a bishop, but we do say that every boy or girl who will make the most of the opportunities they have of acquiring an education, even in our country schools, can become useful members of society.

We would once more urge on parents their duty in visiting the schools and looking after the welfare of their children. We have had 105 weeks of school in town the year past and in all that school only six visits by parents, and only one visit by a prudential committee. In this way parents know little or nothing about the schools except what they learn by the Superintendent's report.

Our school rooms need more and better illustrative apparatus. There is not a globe or a wall map in the school rooms of this town, and in many of them no black board fit for use.

Our schools need more uniformity in text books, and though the law empowers the school committee to compel the parents to furnish the books needed and such as are in established use, we have never yet had a committee that wanted to enforce the law in opposition to ninety-nine one hundredths of all the parents in town. The text books in established use are Munroe's Readers, Greenleaf's Arithmetics (old series). A change is needed in Arithmetics, Warren's Geographies;—other text books on such subjects as languages, penmanship, orthography, and history, there never has been any one series or kind adopted. There are as many as three different kinds of Readers, four or five of Arithmetics, at least three of Geography, and we don't know how many of Grammar and Spellers.

Commending the welfare of our schools to our noble band of teachers, and the supervision of our successor, we remain the public's

Obedient Servant,

HENRY C. KENDALL,

Supt. of Schools.
